

News Home

- Features
- Local News
- Business
- People Speak
- The Courts
- Entertainment
- Religion
- Sports
- Travel & Tourism
- Comments+Letters
- Midweek Lady

Lifestyle

Women's World

Wayne's Whirl

Talk!

Event Calendar

Gallery

About Us

- Advertise
- Contact Us
- Vacancy

Travel Brochures

Ads by Google

Local News RI

Action News

News Press

Star News

Young geniuses release first book

Young geniuses release first book

The book is about her backyard—it's not a normal backyard. Usually a backyard is just grass and trees, but she has bridges, a pond and even a stage. In one word my granny's backyard is extraordinary," said Miles, the nine-year-old author of My Grandma's Backyard. His brother, William, the co-author, says he's already on the verge of writing another book. "I am still in the beginning of that story," said the seven-year-old.

The Rabun brothers were at the International School in Rodney Bay, doing their second book reading for students there. They have toured the Bonne Terre Preparatory School and are next to visit Dame Pearlette.

Windjammer Landing Villa Beach Resort is mainly responsible for orchestrating the brothers' island tour. Though they admit not wanting to be writers forever, the boys admit that they enjoy the fame the book release brings them.

"Sometimes we had a lot of fun and other times we got really frustrated," said Miles. "Sometimes we said we didn't want to do this. But now that we have finished the book it feels good because now everybody is going to know us."

Caption: Young writers William (L) and Miles take us on a journey into their world.

Posted on Wednesday, November 21, 2007 (Archive on Wednesday, November 28, 2007)
Posted by Webmaster Contributed by

Return

